

CARRIE NATION LAYS DOWN AX

Noted Saloon Smasher Dies
After Several Months' Illness.

SHE WAS BORN IN KENTUCKY

At Death of Drunken Husband
she Terrorized Keg Men
Beginning in 1900.

Leavenworth, Kansas, June 9.— Mrs. Carrie Nation, saloon smasher died of paresis here tonight after several months' illness.

Mrs. Nation was born in Kentucky in 1849. Her maiden name was Carrie Moore, and as a girl it is said she was absolutely fearless. In early life she married a man addicted to intoxicants, which created her intense aversion to the saloon. When he died she determined to devote her life to suppression of the liquor traffic. She moved to Kansas and there married David Nation, who sympathized with her temperance principles.

Mrs. Nation's first saloon smashing was done in the bar room of the Carey Hotel in Wichita, December 27, 1900. She was arrested and remained in jail several days before being released on bond. Following that, she terrorized saloonists.

Mrs. Nation did little smashing out of Kansas, but was responsible for a great temperance awakening there.

IS FOUND HANGING BY FOOT IN A TREE

THREE BULLET HOLES IN HEAD OF MYSTERIOUSLY MISSING
OKLAHOMA HACKMAN.

LAST WITH A BUSINESS MAN

Had Driven Hunter to the Country—
One Theory Is That He Was Shot
by Mistake After Seeking Squirrels' Nest in the Tree.

Tulsa, Okla.—Mystery was added to the unexplained absence of Daniel C. Bonner, a hackman of this city, when his body was found in a tree suspended by one foot and with three bullet holes in his face and head. The foot was firmly wedged between branches, where they fork, and his head was hanging downward.

The last seen of Bonner in Tulsa was two months ago, when a man who announced he was a capitalist from Missouri engaged him to drive into the country on a hunting trip.
The authorities have this man's name and are making inquiries about him.

Bonner had no family and was of a roving disposition, so little attention was paid to his absence. It attracted only passing comment and had been nearly forgotten when the body was found. From the condition of the body it had evidently been hanging from the tree all this time.

In the tree was the nest of a squirrel. It is supposed Bonner climbed Found Hanging in a Tree.

the tree to inspect the nest and in coming down slipped and with one foot caught in the forks of a limb, hung head downward.

A careful investigation of the vicinity shows that the hunter for whom he was driving might have been approaching this tree from any one of several different directions where a glimpse through the trees would show him Bonner's head but not his body. Men who went to the scene circled around the tree and found several places where such a view might be had.

At a distance of 50 or 75 yards it can be easily understood that a hunter seeing some strange object hanging from a limb of a tree would fire.
Even if he were thinking of his companion he would not expect to see him hanging head downward from a tree.

Bonner had been shot twice in the head and once in the jaw. The theory of those who have been working on the case is that the Missourian when he found he had lost his driver, walked back to a railroad station and left the country. The man supposed to have done the shooting is a business man of considerable property, who was here looking after some investments.

Any robbery theory that might suggest itself is disposed of by the relative financial condition of the two men. The hackman had nothing, while the Missourian had plenty of money.

Bonner's team was found in possession of a farmer near by. The farmer said two men came to his place and left the team, saying they would be back in a few hours. They never came, and the farmer has been using the team in putting in his crop.

The authorities have not considered arresting the Missourian man, but he will be asked to make a statement of the affair. On account of his standing and the absence of any ground for suspecting the shooting to be premeditated, the coroner and sheriff have declined to give the name of the Missourian. There was no acquaintance between the men prior to the time Bonner was hired to take the hunter out into the country.

Rescue Woman From Well.
Oriska, N. D.—To save Miss Marie Smith from death H. R. Olson was lowered head downward into a well 22 feet deep and only 18 inches in diameter and pulled up after he had hold of the woman. The strain was so great that blood burst through his chest and left arm. Miss Smith fell into the well accidentally.

BRANDS BLACK HAND AGENT WITH HOT IRON

BRAVE ITALIAN WOMAN GIVES IN-TRUDERS A STIFF DOSE OF THEIR OWN MEDICINE.

Scranton, Pa.—When two Italians, supposed to be Black Hand agents, visited the home of Antonio P. Piazza, in Minooka, and informed Mrs. Piazza that her husband and her whole family would be annihilated unless she paid $700, they were given a stiff dose of their own medicine. Mrs. Piazza

Branded with a Flatiron.

was ironing the family wash when the men entered, and held a flatiron, which she had just taken from the stove. No sooner had one of the intruders uttered his threat than the woman bore down upon him and pushed him against the wall. With one hand on the fellow's neck, she pressed the hot iron against his cheek and held it there for an instant, in spite of his furious resistance.
When the iron was removed both men ran screaming from the house, and Mrs. Piazza collapsed. She declares that the imprint of the flatiron was plainly visible on the victim's cheek. It is probable that he will carry the scar to his grave.

LOCKED UP IN A STEEL CAGE

For Thirty Years This Insane Illinois Man Lived in a Garret—Is Now in Asylum.

Waukegan, Ill.—George Odette, for 30 years a prisoner of reason and cared for in a steel cage in the garret of his mother's home near here until the mother died recently, was snared with ropes and taken to an asylum after the formality of a test of his sanity was gone through by an examining board which sat in the garret while Odette shrieked at them and rattled the bars of his cage. The commitment to the asylum was made necessary by the death of Odette's mother at the age of ninety-two years.

For 30 years, since she obtained her son's release from an asylum after a short incarceration, she remained with him, cut off from the world, seldom leaving the garret. She prepared his food and cared for him as best she could.

A shock from a galvanic battery at a county fair in Waukegan robbed young Odette of his reason. The insanity test was made at the request

Odette in His Cage.

of Ambrose Odette, a brother of the insane man. The prisoner was nude during the hearing. His beard, blood-stained and matted, hung nearly to his knees, and his face and body bore marks of frequent struggles against the bars of his cell.

False Teeth in Stomach.
Pittsburg, Pa.—R. E. Wilson, twenty-eight years old, of East Pittsburg, was taken to the hospital with five false teeth and a portion of the bridge work in his stomach. While eating supper the bridge-work broke and the teeth and bridge-work were swallowed. They lodged in the esophagus and caused a severe coughing fit.
They were later forced into the stomach.

Pipe Blows Off Man's Nose.
York, Pa.—A dynamite cap which exploded in the pipe he was smoking blew off the nose of John B. Kone, a Chancellor township man, and put out his right eye. Kone carried his tobacco loose in his pocket. He had been carrying about a dynamite cap also, and it is supposed that he accidentally stuffed the cap into his pipe with the tobacco.

EX-CONVICT DAZED UPON HIS RELEASE

AFTER 20 YEARS' IMPRISONMENT
HE COMES FORTH INTO A STRANGE WORLD.

IS A MODERN RIP VAN WINKLE

Discovers Greater Changes Than Any Seen by the Mythical Sleeper—Automobiles Confuse Him and Towering Skyscrapers Frighten the Man.

Pittsburg, Pa.—Andrew Toth, pardoned by Gov. John K. Tener, has stepped back into the world after an absence of 20 years in prison for a crime of which he was proved innocent. After the big iron gate of the Western penitentiary closed behind him he gasped and panted when he took his first breath of the air of liberty.

It was all new to him—new sounds fell on his ears, new sights greeted his eyes. He paused when he beheld the changed world about him. If it were not for the hope of seeing his aged wife in Hungary he said he would return gladly through the gate to pass the rest of his days within the grim walls of the prison. Toth's four sons, now middle-aged, embraced him when he stepped out of the warden's office.
They were children when he left them to serve his sentence of life imprisonment for the murder of Michael Quinn, a watchman at Edgar Thomson steel works in Braddock, New Year's night, 1891. A crowd in Sterling street insisted on shaking hands with Toth when he emerged from the penitentiary with his sons and his attorney, Edward S. Goehring.

When Toth boarded a street car he examined it curiously. It wasn't like the little cars he had known before he went to prison. On the way to the city he expressed surprise at everything he saw. His expressions of wonder and amazement were childlike.
He had been hidden from the world

Dazed by What He Sees.

for practically the same period of Rip Van Winkle's mythical sleep, and the changes which Rip was supposed to see were no greater than those that filled the wondering eyes of Toth. Utter bewilderment possessed him when he walked up Fifth avenue to Attorney Goehring's office in the Frick building.
He raised his eyes curiously in looking at the walls of the skyscrapers, and seemed to be afraid to glance at their full height. Automobiles darted about him and his amazement increased.
When he went out of the world in 1891 boys were riding bicycles, but the automobile had not been introduced. "Joy riding" then was confined to a trip on the "double deckers" on the old Fifth avenue cable line. When the Frick building elevator car shot upward the aged man shuddered.

During his long confinement Toth's religious devotion stood him in good stead. He prayed constantly that he might be freed of the charge of murder.
He put aside the sacrifice of his life, the tortures of a living death in the prison and the bodily discomforts which he suffered. He sought solace in prayer and his faith was so kindled that he lived on in eternal hope that the truth would come out and that he would be released. Toth said he didn't care for himself—he could endure any suffering, but he wanted to remove the taint from his name, for his children's sake, and he longed to return to his wife. After about ten days with his sons—Andrew, Stephen, John, Michael—in Braddock, he will sail for his fatherland and pass the remainder of his days with his helpmeet.

A bill will be introduced in the legislature to award $10,000 to Toth, and Andrew Carnegie directed his pension fund agents to investigate Toth's case and make a report as quickly as possible. Toth was employed in the Carnegie mills in 1891.

Whistle Chokes Child.
Johnstown, Pa.—Emma Karacen, aged ten years, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Karacen of this city, swallowed a small whistle on her way home from school and choked to death in a short time.

reliable remedy for kidney trouble.
An extreme lameness across my back bothered me for a long time and when stooping or arising from a great annoyance. Upon a friend's

NOT WARNED BY HER PEARLS

Empress Eugenie Did Not Profit by Superstition Attaching to Her Bridal Necklace.

Various are the superstitions attached to precious stones, and the prognostication of the lady who commented on the Empress Eugenie's bridal pearls has certainly ample justification in later years.

"It was a Spanish lady," says Jane T. Stoddard in her biography, "who as she admired the pearl necklace worn by the youthful sovereign quoted with melancholy foreboding that proverb of her country, 'The pearls which women wear on their wedding day are a symbol of the tears which they will shed.'"

"I think it is Maeterlinck who says somewhere that luck really means the possession of a sixth sense which warns one of coming disaster or danger. The Empress Eugenie must surely have been possessed of the faculty, though alas! she did not profit by it.
"Strangely enough the empress' first act after her marriage showed that her mind was brooding on images of death and sorrow. At the beginning of her honeymoon at St. Cloud she asked Napoleon to drive her to Versailles and there she inspected with mournful interest the rooms of Marie Antoinette in the Little Trianon.
"On returning to Paris the imperial pair visited the Archives Nationales and read Marie Antoinette's last letter, written from the Conciergerie on the morning of her execution. Eugenia in later years made a collection of relics belonging to the hapless queen."

They Knew—the Little Dears!
With reference to Sir Almroth Wright's opinion that, from a hygienic point of view, washing is an evil, it is interesting to note that children have always shown a wonderful instinct in this respect.

After a heavy meal, take a couple of Doan's Regulents, and give your stomach, liver and bowels the help they will need. Regulents bring easy, regular passage of the bowels.

NO USE FOR WALKING STICK

Average American, in Hustle of Life,
Has No Time for Un-
sary Cargo.

Now that we are reminded of it, we realize that the great American people are seldom seen to possess a walking stick. "It's a small thing," writes an essayist in a morning paper,
"the absence of the walking stick, but it belongs to the American motto, never, in the hustle of life, carry unnecessary cargo."

The idea is, of course, fantastic with the fantasy of transporting common sense. The hustle of life surely extends to travel in the case of a nation which would consider itself degraded if it spent longer than a week in a complete journey through Europe; and when Americans travel they are the last to deny themselves the luxury of an extra bit of luggage because it happens to be unnecessary.
It is common knowledge that they go on loading the liner with trunks until the company's officials say "Stop." If only to collect so many more steamship and hotel labels to add to their already bloated store of these trinkets.

No. The walking stick is a matter purely of personal choice. Most Americans chance to feel no need for a walking stick whereas we do. That is how the thing stands. When it comes to a walking stick the world must be considered individually. The physical weakness is quite likely to have a taste for a gigantic club; the enormously powerful man who snaps his Sandow developer before breakfast as though it were a piece of cotton may select for a walking stick the thinnest shred of malacca that money can buy.—London Globe.

POKED FUN AT VOLUNTEERS

Pitt's Slap at the Amateur Soldiers of England Quoted by Dr. Simon Flexner.

Dr. Simon Flexner, the distinguished physician at the head of the Rockefeller institute, said at a dinner in New York, apropos of certain mooted legislation against medical research:

"Our friends would surround medical research with so many restrictions and hindrances as to make it ridiculous. They would, in fact, put it in the position of the English volunteers.

"When England, you know, was threatened by a French invasion in 1802 there were a great many volunteers enlisted. But the articles of incorporation of these volunteers guarded them very carefully against too much fighting. The volunteers were not to take the field 'except in case of actual invasion.' They were not to be put on war rations 'except in case of actual invasion.' They were not to be drilled hard 'except in case of actual invasion.'

"When Pitt, who was then warden of the Cinque Ports, read these articles he frowned and pished. Finally, on towards the end of the document, he came to a provision that under no circumstances were the volunteers to leave the country. Here he lost patience, and, seizing a pen, he added to that provision the clause:

"Except in case of actual invasion."

TOLD BY CHAUNCEY DEPEW

Former Senator's Good Story of the New York Bride and the Old Irishman.

"Chauncey M. Depew was the life and soul of Grasse last month," said a New York lawyer. "Grasse is a tranquil little town on the Riviera—a town high up on the mountain side, looking down on the glittering blue Mediterranean.

"One day at a luncheon Mr. Depew gave us specimens of the humor of various nations. I thought his specimen of Irish humor particularly good—it was so gallant and at the same time it hit off so neatly our fondness for divorce.

"A pretty New York bride, he said, bought a blackthorn from an old Irishman who boarded the boat at Queenstown and this old man said to her, as he pocketed her money:

"Thank ye, me pretty darlin', an' happy the young man as'll be co respondent in yer divorce suit."

MAN AND HIS MATE.

Among the questions to be discussed by a Bible class at a Brazil church the other day, was: "How long ought a man to live with his wife?" That all depends upon circumstances. He is expected to live with her just as long as she saws and splits the wood, spades the garden, prepares good steaming hot meals on time, resigns from all the women's clubs, declines to discuss the suffrage question, keeps his clothing repaired, and asks no questions when he drops in home about 2 a. m. from the "lodge." When a wife does all these, there is no limit to the length of time a man would live with such a woman.—Linton Call.

IN THE OLD LIBRARY.

What a place to be in is an old library! It seems as though all the souls of all the writers that have bequeathed their labors to these Bodleians were reposing here, as in some dormitory or middle state. I do not want to handle, to profane the leaves, their winding sheets. I could as soon dislodge a shade. I seem to inhale learning, walking amid their foliage, and the odor of their old moth-eaten coverings is fragrant as the first bloom of those scintillating apples which grew amid the happy orchard.—Charles Lamb, Essays of Elia.

EDUCATION OF CHINESE.

There are three schools for girls in Pekin and three in Shanghai, and, according to Mrs. Maude Park Wood, who has just returned from the Orient, only one per cent. of the women of China can read. There are few private schools and most of the educational effort is made by missionaries.

THE REASONS.

"Why do they always speak of people as casting votes?"
"Because it is generally a throw-down for somebody."

HOW HE OBTAINS PIN MONEY

Farmer's Husband Tells His Methods of Persuading the Hens to Lay More Eggs.

Like most farmers' husbands I am compelled to rely on the chicken and egg money to dress myself, as my wife puts all the cash into labor-saving machinery for every place but the kitchen. This was borne in on me early in my married life, so I carefully studied means of increasing the lay of my barnyard friends.

In the winter time I always wear a pretty lace shirt and carry a palm leaf fan when I feed the hens. This apparel I have found completely deceives them into thinking it is summer, and they lay accordingly.

In the summer it takes but a moment for me to slip into my near-plush ulster and wind a bright red tippet around my neck while scattering their corn. This is important, for it makes them think it is winter, and hence summer, and insures a plentiful supply of eggs.

I have observed they do not seem to care whether these clothes are the latest style or not, so I generally wear my third best. In addition to these simple little devices I always sing to them, "There'll be a hot time in the old town tonight," at all seasons of the year.

By faithfully following this plan for the last seventeen years I have managed to save enough money to buy a perfectly stunning pair of lilac harem trousers.—McLanburgh Wilson in New York Times.

ALREADY WAS GOOD WRITER

Amusing Story of Frank H. Spearman, the Author, and His Young Son.

An amusing story is told of Frank H. Spearman, the author of "Robert Kimberly," of the shock he gave one of the brothers of St. Mary's college, Oakland, Cal. Mr. Spearman sent one of his boys there to school, and, the boy was a great favorite with one of the brothers who was noted for his penmanship, and for his ability to teach it. He prided himself on turning out the best writing pupils of the west, and he thought that Spearman was one of the best of these.

One time Mr. Spearman was talking to him, not knowing that he was the teacher of writing. He said, "If there is one thing that I do want it is for that boy to be a good writer."

"But indeed he is a good writer," the brother began—

"I want him to be a clear, forceful writer, none of your little fancy penmanship."

Upon this the mild mannered brother rushed to his desk, and brought back some specimens of young Spearman's hand writing. He was in a great flurry of excitement. He was used only to compliments.

Mr. Spearman looked surprised for a moment, and then he began to laugh. "Oh!" he said, "I don't care about his penmanship. I meant that I want him to write good English."

Emerson on Civilization.

The civilized man has built a coach, but has lost the use of his feet. He is supported on crutches, but lacks so much support of muscle. He has a Geneva watch, but he fails of the skill to tell the hour by the sun. A Greenwich nautical almanac he has, and so, being sure of the information when he wants it, the man in the street does not know a star in the sky. The solstice he does not observe; the equinox he knows as little; and the whole bright calendar of the year is without a dial in the mind. His libraries overload his wit; the insurance office increases the number of accidents; and it may be a question whether machinery does not outnumber; whether we have not lost by refinement some energy, by a Christianity entrenched in establishments and forms, some vigor of wild virtue. For every Stoic was a Stoic, but in Christendom where is the Christian?—Emerson.

The Dickens of a Toast.

The wit of the late Dr. Francis A. Harris was always ready. It came like a flash as, when being told that a Chinaman was about to be appointed on the police force, he remarked, "The Asiatic collarer," and passed on. At a banquet given to Charles Dickens the younger, the chairman inadvertently talking backward, referred to the guest as one not only honored for himself, but because of his father. Then younger Dickens, in response, dryly observed that he was glad to see that critical discrimination had not been lost on hospitality, and Dr. Harris saved the situation by rising and proposing a toast to "Charles the Second, who never lost his head."

England Copied From America.

The American system of lettergrams is responsible for an innovation which has been recently put into operation in England by the postoffice authorities by which the advantage of the delivery of a letter on Sunday is secured at the expense of a trifling fee. It is simply necessary to write on the envelope: "To be telephoned on Sunday," and adds an extra half-cent of postage for every 30 words or fraction thereof. Then the postal clerk at the receiving office calls up the person addressed by telephone and conveys the message without leaving the postoffice. If enough postage is included, the same message may be delivered by telephone to a number of different parties in the same city.

NO WESTERN MAN FOR HER

New York Stenographer Objects to Employer Whose Business Day Begins Before Nine.

A New York office had advertised for stenographers, and when the applicants came they were interviewed by the assistant manager, who was a woman. An agreement almost had been closed with one bright girl when the assistant mentioned incidentally that the proprietor was a western man. Instantly the fair face of the applicant clouded. "In that case," she said firmly, "I do not wish to make a change. Why, do you know?" her voice dropped to a low, tragic tone, as of one who voices hidden crime—"that man actually gets down to the office at six o'clock in the morning, and he expects us to be there at eight. Worse than that, even when we are on hand promptly at eight he acts as if it was about the middle of the day. Of course, it is easy for him, for it seems he gets up about four o'clock every morning, works a bit at home, reaches the office at six and piles up work for us until eight, so it really does seem late to him when we arrive. No more western men for me, thank you. Any little old New York man will do for me, for New York men don't try to begin office hours before nine or ten o'clock."

Snake-Killing Birds.

In South Africa it is to be found the champion snake killer of the bird family. It is known as the secretary-bird.

The name seems an odd one, but the bird received its name from a crest or tuft of plumage rising from the back of its head, which reminds one of a secretary or bookkeeper with a bunch of quills stuck behind his ear.

As a rule it attacks smaller snakes in preference to the very powerful ones, and in doing so uses every precaution against contact with the poisonous fangs or strong cells. It does not attack its prey suddenly, but, after walking round the spot occupied by the reptile, suddenly spreads its wings and gives the reptile a sudden but sharp blow on the head with its very hard and sharp talons. This is done so quickly that the reptile has no chance to resist.—Harper's Weekly.

The Dog's Mind.

I have a Skye terrier possessing what seems to me at least to be an extraordinary knowledge of time. On each day of the week, excepting Saturday, some scholars pass along a road at the back of my grounds, about 4 p. m., on their way home—about a mile distant. If the dog is out of doors he invariably joins them, accompanies them home, and returns. If he should happen to be indoors at the hour they pass, he sits at a window watching for them; and when they appear, he asks plainly and palpably to be let out. On Saturday, however, when the school is shut, as soon as the doors of my house are opened in the morning, he makes off for the children's cottage, and spends the week end with them, returning to me on Monday. And so it goes on for weeks.—The Scotsman.

Johnny Cake's Name.

Johnny cake is certainly about as queer bread as was ever got up. Tip has never seen any true account of it whatsoever. Pone dough is molded around an iron musket ramrod or on a long green strong switch and held over the fire until roasted or baked, or whatever you call it. In old times Gen. Forrest's men cooked cornmeal rations, hence Johnny cake, Johnny Reb. Tip has heard old Texas say that Sam Houston to his dying day ate such corn cakes, which he learned to make from his long life among the nomads.—New York Press.

Mrs. Grover Cleveland has returned from Europe.

Silas Cole, a negro boy aged 17, was drowned while in swimming near Earlington.

A new paper called the Times will start at Russellville next week, with A. M. Herndon at the helm.

Mrs. Katherine Green, of Henderson, is reporting the Steel Trust investigation for Congressman Stanley.

Mayor Thompson, of Henderson, has suspended patrolman Life Brans, on a charge of insulting a lady who was waiting in the depot for a train.

Caleb Powers wants hanging abolished in the District of Columbia. Having been sentenced to be hanged once or twice himself, it is quite natural that he should be prejudiced against hanging.

London is already filling up with visitors to the coronation next week. Seats along the line of march are selling at $15 to $75 and accommodations have been provided for 750,000. Among the suckers who will bite, will be thousands of Americans.

The Irish American has this comment on O'Rear's race: "The real leaders of the Republican party in every section of the State have begun to realize that if Judge O'Rear is to be the standard-bearer of that party this fall there is no hope to elect their ticket. Judge O'Rear stood with the night riders as against Gov. Willson, who stood for law and order. Gov. Willson opposed barn burning, the destruction of tobacco patches and midnight assassination of men. He used every power vested in him to restore peace and quietude in the State. For this he was rebuked by the Chief Justice of the Court of Appeals, Edward C. O'Rear. But Judge O'Rear is intolerant on other points. He seems to have been so long a justice of the Court of Appeals, and is so long used to airing his own opinions, that he can not brook the idea of anybody having an opposite opinion."

California Big Trees.

In 1908 Congress passed an act creating the Calaveras Big Tree National Forest, California. The bill was introduced by Senator Perkins and was favorably reported by the committee on public lands by Senator Flint, and was passed without objection, but after three years of negotiations the law has been found to be inoperative and impracticable and must be amended in order to acquire and preserve what is conceded to be the finest assemblage of big trees. As Senator Flint said in his report: "In view of the fact that it has taken thousands of years to produce many of these trees, and if they were once destroyed no skill or expense could bring similar wonders of creation into existence with in a time represented by the known history of the world, it is strongly recommended that the act be changed so that the purpose of Congress may be carried out."

The Calaveras forest consists of 12,000 acres on the north fork of the Stanislaus River, near the town of Angels, which has been made famous by Mark Twain and Bert Harte, and fifty or sixty miles northwest of the Yosemite National Park. It occupies a belt in a depression between two slopes through which meanders a small brook that dries up in summer. There are two groves of sequoias about six miles apart and they are "the grandest, and largest the oldest and most majestically graceful of all the trees in the world."

Now is the time to sack your grape. Sacks for sale at this office.

Oldest Rose Bush.

So far as is known the oldest rose bush in the world is the one on a wall at Hildesheim, Germany. It can be traced back with certainty to the eleventh century, when records were made that it was an item of expense to caretakers of the ancient edifice. The main trunk of the bush is 20 inches through and the branches spread over the wall to a height of 25 feet.

Though the oldest, this is by no means the largest rose bush in Germany, however. The largest one in that country, and very likely in all Europe, is the one in the Wehrle garden in Freiburg. This runs up to a height of 115 feet. The stock is wild rose, and the graft, made 30 years ago, a tea rose of the Chromatella variety. There is an enormous Banksia rose at the castle of Chillon, on Lake Geneva, that is better known to tourists than either of these, though, as a matter of fact, it is exceeded in size by one of the same variety in the Marine gardens of Toulon. This one spreads over a space of 80 feet wide and 15 feet high, and has as many as 50,000 of its flowers in bloom at once.—Harpers Weekly.

Pitching Shoes.

Let us hope that the championship horseshoe-pitching between former Vice President Fairbanks and John M. Studebaker may bring about a general revival of that old-time sport. A considerable number of our country-raised great men had their periodical horseshoe flogs, so to speak, and in front or at the side of a thousand blacksmith shops there are places sacred to the ennobling game.—Owensboro Inquirer.

The L. & N. Grass Plat.

The L. & N. Railroad has finished putting up the fence around the depot grass-plat and the concrete walks are under contract. The fence is built of cedar posts five feet high with two lines of iron pipe through them. The grass plat is elliptical in shape and has been sodded, when the improvement has been completed it will add much to the attractiveness of the depot surroundings.

Laying Concrete.

Mr. E. M. Flack is having a concrete sidewalk laid on the Main and sixteenth sides of his residence property on South Main streets. When completed it will make the concrete walk continuous on that side from 13th to 17th streets, excepting in front of two or three houses. On the west side the concrete walks extend from 13th to 17th, with one or two short gaps.

BUTTONING UP WIFE NEARLY COSTS $1,000

ST. LOUISAN, DUE IN COURT, DELAYS HOUR TO HELP SPOUSE AND LOSES BOND.

St. Louis.—The arduous task of buttoning his wife's dress almost cost Jacob Belly of Walnut Park $16 a minute—and he devoted 60 minutes to madame's toilette—in the United States circuit court of St. Louis.

Belly was found guilty of attempting to extort $1,000 from Frederick Esselbrugg, a wealthy North St. Louis merchant, by "Black Hand" methods. His bond was declared forfeited because he had to wait for his wife to finish dressing to accompany him to court.

The minutes spent by Belly in buttoning his wife's waist up the back and in waiting for her to get her hat on straight before the two boarded a car down downtown, would have cost Belly and his bondsmen heavily had not Judge Dyer relented, after Belly explained, and set aside the forfeiture of the bond.

Thus was it evidenced that even a jurist may have an appreciation of a husband's predicament when wife has to be "buttoned up."

Belly's failure to put in an appearance in Judge Dyer's court at 10 a. m., when the verdict of the jury was to be announced, caused great excitement in the court room. Rumors that Belly had fled were current.

Judge Dyer, when ten o'clock had passed, ordered the bond forfeited and an attachment issued for Belly. Before this action could be taken, however, Belly walked into the court room with Mrs. Belly. The latter was securely fastened up the back and wore her hat at a perfect angle.

Belly's explanation of the cause of his delay created ripples of merriment throughout the court room and everybody appeared satisfied when Judge Dyer set aside the forfeiture of the bond.

The verdict of the jury finding Belly guilty of attempting to extort $1,000 from Esselbrugg by threatening letters, was then read. Judge Dyer deferred sentence.

IT'S THE "ARMADILLO" NOW

The Latest Thing in Women's Hats That Has Supplanted the "Ding-a-Ling."

Curious Hat Creation.

from the straw's woven resemblance to that animal's hide. The weaving of the straw also resembles miniature mountain peaks rising one on top of the other, as it were, until the crest of the hat is reached. However, there is nothing of the far-away feeling of a mountain peak in the appearance of the new hats. They stick out like the eaves on a Japanese pagoda. Of course, many of the shapes still cover the wearer's eyes and you may still have three guesses as to the identity of your lady acquaintance when you speak to her on the streets.

SHERLOCK HOLMES HAS A REAL RIVAL

DETECTIVE WILLIAM J. BURNS IS WIDELY KNOWN AS THE "NEVER FAIL."

FAMOUS SECRET SERVICE MAN

Gained Much Fame When He Ran Down Elusive Counterfeiters for Uncle Sam—For 25 Years He Has Successfully Tracked Criminals.

Los Angeles, Cal.—William J. Burns, better known as "Billy" Burns to secret service operators and detectives all over the country, and whose most recent claim to fame was the arrest of the McNamara brothers and Orville McManigal for the long series of dynamite crimes throughout the country, is an Ohio product. He was formerly cutter in a tailor shop at Columbus.

Something over 30 years ago Burns earned a modest stipend as a cutter in a tailor shop at Columbus, where the uniforms for the police of that city were made. John E. Murphy was chief of police. He and Burns became great friends. Often when Murphy had a hard case he would talk it over with Burns. After the police had worked a week on a murder case Burns criticized the methods employed. He told Murphy the men worked on bad lines. Murphy suggested Burns try his hand and the suggestion was promptly accepted. One week later Burns landed the man and secured a confession. He was taken from the cutter's bench and made a detective, and while he was there made his name a terror to criminals. After a short experience he went with an agency at St. Louis.

Later he became connected with the United States secret service and handled with marked results a great mass of important work. William P. Hazen was chief of that branch of the treasury when Burns was called into the office during the '90s and shown an almost perfect $100 Monroe head silver certificate that had been caught at the sub-treasury at Philadelphia. A few days later John E. Wilkie was made chief of the secret service and he gave Burns the work and told him to use his own methods. It required sixteen months' work, at the end of that period Burns had the two engravers, the men who circulated the bills, the plates, and over a million of the bogus notes. He also discovered that a counterfeit equally good was almost ready to be passed.

Soon after this a counterfeit silver certificate $10 bill bearing the head of Hancock appeared at Atlanta, Ga., where the cotton exposition was under way and many were put in circulation. Burns was put on that. A line he picked up led to Kansas City and involved a prominent man at the live stock exchange. The man was wealthy and had been in business, known and respected for 20 years. Four weeks Burns trailed that man and, finally made the arrest, found incriminating documents in his pockets and caught $20,000 of the counterfeit bills addressed to the man at the express office.

He cleaned up the Gen. De Mora and Captain Requesans gang that operated in New York and manufactured bogus bills for circulation in the central American states. He also cleaned up the Brockway, Ulrich and Bradford crowd of counterfeiters and captured all the plates they used in the manufacture of $20 silver certificates.

When San Francisco citizens decided on an investigation of graft conditions in that city they went to Washington to get advice about the firm of detectives to make the investigation. Chief Wilkie was asked about it and he said Burns could and would clean it up if they employed him and let him alone. He was loaned by the treasury department at the personal request of President Roosevelt, and it is recent history how he riddled the gang that had been plundering that city, secured confessions, sent a number to the penitentiary and upset the graft conditions.

In 30 years of detective work Burns holds the enviable record of never having lost a big case, never having shot a man in making any of the scores of important arrests he has made. No man has ever shot him.

ELEPHANT OBJECTS TO THE COLIC DOPE

BEAST COUGHS THE MIXTURE INTO THE KEEPER'S FACE AND ALMOST STRANGLES HIM.

New York.—When Head Keeper Billy Snyder of the Central Park zoo went into the pen of Hattie, the trick elephant, with her breakfast and was not greeted by the usual little squeal of welcome he knew something was wrong. Then he noticed that her head was banging and her trunk dragging listlessly on the ground, and when she answered his greeting merely by a lack luster glance his mind was made up at once. "Clover colic," Snyder answered to Director John M. Smith. "Poor old Hattie's got it and it's swelled up like a dirigible. I gave her a bale of fresh clover yesterday. She needs medicine." Snyder looked into his prescription book and pretty soon decided that the proper thing for Hattie's insides was a dainty little mixture of one-half gallon of linseed oil, two ounces of laudanum and two quarts of spiritus frumenti, the last being, according to Mr. Snyder, just plain whisky. But Hattie doesn't like booze. So they had to chain her feet and hold her head with a block and tackle and when she opened her mouth for a wisp of hay Snyder poured the mixture down her throat. Hattie coughed once when the mixture was half way down, and, in the words of the song, "The blow almost killed Billy," for he received about a pint of the mixture in his eyes and was blown clear off the barrel on which he was standing, but outside of this Hattie gave no trouble. Hattie swallowed enough, however, to chase away the colic caused from clover, and about an hour later was going through her tricks with Billy Snyder for the children as if nothing out of the ordinary had happened.

PHONOGRAPH CALLS COWS

Ingenious Wisconsin Boys Make the Machine Do Work While They Play Checkers.

Milwaukee, Wis.—Boys whose main idea is to avoid work are full of inventive genius when it comes to a matter of getting something or somebody to do their work for them. Two boys living in the rural districts of northern Wisconsin through ingenuity prompted by laziness made a phonograph do their work for them. They used the machine until they had become tired of the canned songs and then put it aside and amused themselves playing checkers. They found that doing the chores seriously inter-ferred with the game. One of them remembered that impressions of sound could be made on blank record. The ingenious one called into the machine "Come, boss; come, boss." They put the machine in the pasture and turned it loose. They resumed their checkers and the cows came home.

Teacher Kills 27 Snakes. Indianapolis, Ind.—Mary Jenkins, a young Posey county school teacher, in the afternoon recess recently was attracted by the frightened screams of her pupils. Rushing out she found them standing in excited groups talking about snakes they had seen in the school yard. Miss Jenkins found the grass fairly alive with black snakes. She seized a poker and a shovel and beat them right and left. Some showed fight, but with the sharp end of the shovel the teacher cut off their heads. With the poker she kept them from harming her. The fight was short and swift. At the finish 27 dead reptiles was the score.

"U" Will Probe Grafting. New York.—A gift of $10,000 annually from an anonymous donor for surgical research work is announced at Columbia university. Another gift is of $15,000 a year "for the establishment and maintenance of a bureau to promote scientific investigation of legislative grafting."

I am now in perfect health, recommend Cardui to all suffering women." Every day, during the past 50 years, Cardui has been steadily forging ahead as a result of its proven value in female troubles. It relieves headache, backache, womanly misery and puts fresh strength into weary bodies. Try it.

The cause of the fire is supposed to have been a defective flue. There was no insurance on the house burned, and the loss is estimated at about $1,000.

STILL 'QUAKING

In Mexico and Deaths Now Exceed 1,000.

Mexico City, June 12.—Only with the partial restoration of telegraphic communication throughout the republic has the real extent of the devastation brought by the earthquake been revealed. Every dispatch received here has added to the horror.

The most conservative estimate prepared by the government shows that fully 125 have been killed and when the inaccessible sections are heard from it is feared that the death list will give about 200.

The ruin started in many cities by the earthquake of Wednesday morning was completed by a second earthquake which occurred Friday afternoon. It was most severe in the southern and western sections of the country, but was distinctly felt here.

"My wife would have been in her grave today," writes O. H. Brown, of Muscadine, Ala., "If it had not been for Dr. King's New Discovery. She was down in her bed, not able to get up without help. She had a severe bronchial trouble and a dreadful cough. I got her a bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery, and she soon began to mend, and was well in a short time." Wants to Vote.

Urging congress to give women the right to vote at all public elections, a memorial by Mrs. James Bennett, of Richmond, Ky., was filed by Representative Helm. It requested that such provision be made in the resolution for the election of senators by popular vote on which the senate will vote next Monday.

Lightning Kills Few.

In 1906 lightning killed only 169 people in this whole country. One's chances of death by lightning are less than two in a million. The chances of death from liver, kidney or stomach trouble is vastly greater, but not if Electric Bitters be used, as Robert Madison, of West Burlington, Ia., proved. Four doctors gave him up after eight months of suffering from virulent liver trouble and yellow jaundice. He was then completely cured by Electric Bitters. They're the best stomach, liver, nerve and kidney remedy and blood purifier on earth. Only 50c at all druggists.

THEIR MINDS FOCUS WRONG

Why Many Persons Fail to Perceive Events Clearly and in the Right Proportion.

The veriest amateur in photography knows that a view of an object may be completely distorted by being out of focus, and thus give an entirely wrong notion of its relative proportions. To get the correct focus the eye of the camera must be neither too close nor too far from what is to be photographed.

So it is with the human vision, though merely a mental photograph, the same precision of focus is necessary to arrive at relative values. The trouble with too many people is that their minds focus wrong, and grasp events at either too near or too great distance, or from extreme angles, or magnify unimportant details at the expense of the vital elements.

The man who is out of focus with his surroundings or with the subject he is discussing is quite common, and the peculiar ideas of which he becomes obsessed are as bizarre as a photograph made by a freak camera. To get such a man back into focus is much more difficult than to adjust a lens, yet that is precisely what must be done in order to give him clear perception and enable him to see things in their right relation.—Omaha Bee.

FETES FOR AGED COUPLES

How Honor is Paid the Old People in France by Public Festivals.

Rheims has just been celebrating an interesting event, the golden wedding of 60 old couples, says the Westminster Review.

The fete is as old as the Revolution, when it first seems to have begun. In the time of the directory there were two fetes, the fete of the old people and the fete of the golden wedding. This seems to have been a very pretty affair, to judge from the account in the Debats. There was a procession of oxen, with their horns crowned with flowers, followed by children crowned with violets, by young men wreathed with myrtle, and old men with garlands of olives and girls dressed as vestal virgins.

At Paris in August, 1797, there was a great festival in honor of the old men, who were all given seats at the Opera, when "a gracious Hebe crowned their white locks with garlands of roses," and the soldiers presented arms. The idea of the fete was the encouragement of the family circle. The old man, who was a happy grandfather, was feted as an encouragement to the younger generation to follow in his footsteps.

Would Destroy One Joke.

Locks of every imaginable kind have been invented, but there is now on the market a keyless door lock that is rapidly taking the place of the lock of the old style, Harper's Weekly notes.

These keyless locks do not appear, at a glance, to differ greatly from the ordinary lock. They have a fancy plate and a knob and they can be placed on any door. Instead of the key and keyhole, however, there is a particular bit of mechanism beneath the knob, with four to six little levers, which can be pressed or raised to unlock the door. The owner or person who has a right to enter can be given the combination and the lifting of one or more of these little levers, one or more times, just as may be arranged, will release the bolt and the door will open. The closing of the door will lock it and a certain lever will release it if it is worked from the inside. Numerous combinations may be had and these can be changed at any time.

Skyscraping Nerve.

"Way up in the air, at skyscraping construction work, on a single steel beam spanning space among the clouds like an aeroplane, a workman lost his balance or made a misstep—so high up he was that watchers could not make out which—and tottered, wavering there to make your stomach fall into your boots while your heart thumped the top of your skull. Then he got a grip on himself, recovered his poise, apparently looked down for a moment on the army of wee human mites so far below on earth—and went about his work again. Good skyscraping nerve. Wonder did he tell the wife and kiddies when he got home to supper? No, not with that nerve.

Visiting Cards for Dogs.

A novelty in Paris is the lapdog visiting cards. "Poms" and pugs which go visiting with their mistresses in fashionable circles in Paris are to have their own tiny pasteboards tucked away in little pockets of their outdoor coats. Such dogs have two sets of cards, which are left on other dogs at the houses where they are calling with their mistresses. One card gives the dog's real name and its race, while the other records its pet name joined to the family name of its owner. Cards are left according to the pedigree of the dog visited.

If She Winked.

"Set down! Set down!" said a cross crabbid old man as two saucy little urchins stood up in front of him at an entertainment. "I can't see or wink." "Aw, go on!" cried one of them. "If she winks we'll tell you," and remained where they stood the rest of the evening.

BEAUTIES OF THE SIERRAS

John Muir Eloquently Describes the Charms He Finds in That Mountain Region.

Here with bread and water I should be content. Even if not allowed to roam and climb, tethered to a stake or tree in some meadow or grove, even then I should be content forever. Bathed in such beauty, watching the expressions every varying on the faces of the mountains, watching the stars, which here have a glory that the lowlander never dreams of, watching the circling seasons, listening to the songs of the waters and winds and birds, would be endless pleasure. And what glorious cloudlands I would see, storms and calms—a new heaven and a new earth every day, aye, and new inhabitants. And how many visitors I would have. I feel sure I would not have one dull moment. And why should this appear extravagant. It is only common sense, a sign of health, genuine natural all-awake health. One would be at an endless Godful play, and what speeches and music and acting and scenery and lights—sun, moon, stars, auroras. Creation just beginning, the morning stars, "still singing together and all the sons of God shouting for joy."—John Muir, in the Atlantic.

FIRELESS COOKING FOR DOGS

How One Family Solved the Problem of Preparing the Food for the Animals.

Cooking the dog's food had been rather a difficult problem in our household, either because the kitchen range was otherwise occupied or because the cook was, and the long, slow cooking necessary for cereals and tough meats was seldom accomplished without friction. Now we put the meat and bones, with enough water to cover them, in a fireless cooker receptacle, bring the contents of the pot to the boiling point in about five minutes, and then pack the kettle away in the fireless cooker for five or six hours. The meat is then tender enough to peel from the bone, and more water is added, and whatever cereal we wish to use. The whole mass is once more brought to the boiling point, and put back in the cooker. In another four or five hours we find a supply of richly flavored food that keeps fresh in a cool place for several days. The dogs seem to enjoy the food prepared in this way, and we are sure of its being thoroughly cooked, and never scorched, and the time occupied in the kitchen is minimized.—Country Life in America.

The Eyes and the Voice.

A physician in London, Dr. William Martin Richards, has had occasion to observe a relation existing between the eyes and the voice and has recently made a statement of two cases that came under his treatment where actresses who had lost their voices completely recovered them when treated for defective eyes and fitted with proper glasses.

He tells of one young woman in whose family eye diseases were hereditary who found herself at the age of twenty-two losing her voice. Her eyes were found to be in need of attention and when she had been supplied with glasses she promptly recovered her singing voice.

When she discarded the glasses some time later and her eyes were once more neglected her voice also relapsed into a husky state that precluded all singing. This practitioner has observed a number of similar cases and the discovery of the relation between the eyes and the voice should certainly be valuable to stage folk and others who depend largely upon their voices for their status in the world.

Manuscript of Thirteenth Century.

While reading a French book of the sixteenth century in the university library, St. Andrews, the German lecturer, Dr. Schaaffs, noticed some fragments of an old French poem which the binder had pasted on back and covers of the book.

After loosening them he removed the glue and out of the four pieces obtained composed two larger pieces, parts of two leaves of a manuscript written in a beautiful and clear type in two columns of thirty-nine lines each, 144 in all, with red and blue initials. The names occurring in the text leave no doubt that the fragments contain parts of the old French chason "Le Roman de Girard de Viane," and from the language and the script it appears that the manuscript was written between 1250 and 1300.

Airing a Fumigated Room.

To air a room that has been fumigated after a contagious sickness, before entering it, this plan is suggested. Before sealing up the room for fumigating, fasten two screw-eyes into the lower edge of the upper sash of a window in the room; to these tie a heavy cord, leaving the loop between long enough to hang within easy reach of a window on the floor below. After the room has been sufficiently fumigated, pull the cord from the lower window, thus opening the upper window and letting the fresh air in and the close air out.—Woman's Home Companion.

Fulton began a series of three games yesterday and with ideal weather, the crowds are expected to be good every day. Fulton is the newest town in the League, never having been in the Kitty before, but the State Liners have a team of which they are justly proud.

Friday With Cairo.

The first game with Cairo Friday was a closely contested one finally resulting in a victory for Hopkinsville by 4 to 3. Newlan and Smith were the battery for Cairo and Johnson and Huhn for Hopkinsville. The field work of left fielder Vidovich was the feature of Cairo's side. Pitcher Newlan has a drop ball that the Moguls had some difficulty in connecting with. Piatt, a new umpire, was here for the first time. He uses his lungs instead of his hands in making decisions.

Clarksville Loses.

Here are the 6 games Clarksville has lost:
May 17 to Hopkinsville, May 19 to Hopkinsville, May 31 to Paducah, June 1 to Paducah, June 3 to Fulton, June 6 to Cairo.
Up to June 10 the games won were 16, making the per cent 727 although the Vincennes papers give only 5 losses and a per cent of 762. This may be important later and now is the time to locate and correct mistakes. Which of the games is not counted?

Paducah is Strengthening.

Guy Woodring, Paducah's star pitcher last year, who has been a hold-out, has been wired to report. Va'jean and Erickson, a pitcher and catcher from Notre Dame University, have also signed and will report June 15. They are said to be stars of the university team. Derose, a catcher with McLeansboro, has been purchased and will report next week.

Fulton's Line-up.

Heckert, cf; Wilson, 2b; White, 3b; Stewart, rf; Elliott, lf; Taylor, 1b; Blakemore, c; Smart, ss; Ryan, Arrasmith and Williams, pitchers.

KITTY MEWS

Hopkinsville's "Boy Wonder," McArthur, is only 18 years old, but he delivers the goods.

Blakemore, catcher for Fulton, was once a student at McLean College, and played with their team. He is young, but a good player.

Clarksville didn't play a double-header with Fulton Saturday, to get rid of the Sunday game. Clarksville is now running 4 games behind the schedule.

H. L. Clark, second baseman with Hopkinsville, went to Logansport, Ind., Sunday, where he was married yesterday. He will return this morning with his bride and be in the game to-day.

According to Reach's official record for 1910, Lyman Johnson in 38 games struck out 182 men and .Cla-
